Japan has been one of Indonesia's long partner countries with long history of good relationship and partnership. Japan as one of Indonesia biggest investors in oil and gas upstream and infrastructure projects. Energy serves as economy development growth booster in Indonesia. Indonesia is both a producer and consumer country for oil and gas. Our oil and gas production are derived from the reserves spread in all over area in Indonesia. There are still many unexplored basins that have not been explored yet due to high cost and risk. The Government of Indonesia is very serious in conducting exploration in eastern part of Indonesia which is needed to be explored and to be developed with huge investment and compatible technologies. The Government of Indonesia has been in its best effort to provide energy security through appropriate energy policy by providing a guarantee of the four elements including availability, accessibility, affordability, and sustainability in the country.
